The Atlanta Constitution (1906-1906)

Organized labor has entered politics and is not going back. The 'American Federation of Labor' with its 50,000,000 members is so strong in every known trade, cause or social movement that it is not going back. Strong groups in the national and state legislatures have been organized and the interests of organized labor are clearly stated. In the Congressional campaign we find a strong force for the laboring man.
