"THE UNITED LABOR PARTY."

HENRY GEORGE'S FOLLOWERS' EFFECT PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.

The United Labor Party, as the leaders of Henry George's supporters have finally determined to do themselves, is organized with a constitution and by-laws by its Executive Committee. At a meeting of the latter, held on Wednesday evening, at No. 141 Eighth-street, it was decided that the constitution should remain in force until Jan. 5, 1887, though in the latter it is stated that the General Committee of the party shall have the right to alter it. The preamble to the constitution is as follows:

"We, the representatives of the United Labor Party of the city and county of New-York, believing that Governmental corruptions and injustices spring from the assertion that all men are created equal; that the advantages arising from society are not all equally distributed; that the right of property, to society at large; that in the drawing of Grand Juries there shall be no distinction by class; that the property qualification for trial jurors should be aboli shed; that all taxes on building structures should be abolished; that the course of our courts should be simpli fied; that the inspection of buildings should be enforced; that all laws infringing upon the rights of labor should be abolished; that in public work all labor should be directly employed; that all taxes on building structures should be abolished; that all taxes should be levied on land values which arises from location, and the solicitude of the public; that existing means of transit should no longer be allowed; that they can not be moved; that they should be by lawful process be assumed by the city and operated for the public benefit; and that the true purpose of Government is the protection of that sacred right of property which secures to every man the fruits of his labor.

The preamble has a Knight of Labor as well as a Henry George flavor, and the organization of the party promised continual conflict with the Knights. The organization is to consist of a County General Committee, a County Executive Committee, a General Executive Committee, an Executive Committee of the same, and election district organizations. The highest authority is vested in the General Committee, consisting of the Officers of which consist of Chairman, Recording and Financial Secretaries, and Treasurer, to be elected for one year.

For every 200 votes of a majority fraction of that number cast by an Assembly district at the previous election, there shall be 1 vote for can didate. The party shall have its own list, and it shall elect a delegate to the General Committee. Regular meetings of the committee will be held on the Tuesday following the election of the Executive Committee will consist of one member from each Assembly district delegation on the General Committee. The County Executive Committee will meet at least once in two weeks. It shall prepare and circulate circulars, and arrange for Congressional and other elections, and fix the representation thereof, shall select the Chairman, and such other officers as shall be necessary for conventions to choose their Vice-Presidents and Secretaries and nominate candidates. Assembly district organizations shall consist of citizens who have cut loose from "other existing political parties; and who have declared their intention of becoming citizens and voters to the platform of the United Labor Party. The Assembly district organizations shall be at many standing and special committees as they deem proper. All officers shall be elected at the first meeting of January each year. A completed election of the General or County Executive Committees shall be printed in "such public papers as shall be declared to be the official organs of this party."

The regular dues of members of Assembly dis tric districts shall be 10 cents per month. Members may be excused from payment "for a certain stated period. In addition to the regular dues, an annual subscription by Assembly district organizations shall provide "mental and moral refreshment" for their members. All members of Assembly district organizations shall be members of their respective election districts. The last paragraph of the preamble will be expected to make "house to house canvassing indispensable to the campaign and to cause worthy citizens to join the organization."
